Christmas Gift
Photos 2023

Amanda Felts turned pens (both acrylic and wood), a gronk, and two bowls.

The bowls are for her mom and for her father-in-law, the pens are for brothers-in-law and their wives, and the gronk is for her mother-in-law.

Amanda Felts made these 3ft trees, each from a single 2x4. The trees are for her mother-in-law, sister-in-law, an aunt and a grandma.

Bob Ristow turned and carved this bottle for his daughter.

The bottle is turned, beaded, and chip carved, then colored using India ink. The final finish is wipe on poly.

Bob Ristow carved these ornaments from basswood, then finished them with acrylic paint and Howards wax.

Don Coleman created this bowl to be sent to a fellow segmented turner in Bend, Oregon. There are 1057 segments. The finish is Odie's Oil.

Jim Clauson made this stand for cell phones or tablets. The rear support leg folds in for storage.

Dimensions are 5"w x 5-1/2"d x 5"h.

Made for his kids who work from home and keep the phones upright and at an angle . He made six of them.

Mike Goerdt made this rocking chair for his granddaughter. Uses no glue, nails, or screws.

Mike Marini made these personalized figures for his friends

Rod Nabholz turned this Hard Maple mini bowl / remote caddy
for his new son-in-law,
Alex.
Finished in WOP.

Rod Nabholz turned this pair of mini-planters from Ash. They are for his daughter, Aubrey. They match a box he gave her last year, made from the same piece of wood. Finished in WOP.

Rod Nabholz turned this lidded bowl for his wife, Donna, from Claro Walnut and Hard Maple. Finished with wipe on poly.

Rod Nabholz turned this 10-inch Ash bowl for his Mother-in-Law, Ruth. Finished in WOP.

Rod Nabholz turned this 7-inch Walnut Bowl for his Stepfather, Loy. Finished in WOP.

Rod Nabholz turned this 10-inch bowl for his daughter, Avery, from cherry, with a bit of sap wood.

Rod Nabholz was on a roll this year, turning this bowl for his son, Vaughn. Maple with some nice figure and a bit of spalting. 8", finished in WOP.

Ron Luckeroth made a couple of gifts for his grandkids.

Steve Bonny says,
“This segmented barrel is a Christmas gift for my son who just took up homebrewing beer as a hobby. The barrel features a tiny working wood turned spigot.... although you've got to be quite patient.”

It is 150mm tall (6"), walnut, stained, and finished with satin rattle-can lacquer.

This is Steve Bonny's Segmented Woodturners Chapter Christmas swap project. Coincidentally, he pulled Don Coleman's name out of the hat, so this was sent to Don.

Steve describes it: "It is a segmented Fibonacci spiral, inspired by Keith Tomkins' "spiral" which was featured on the back page of the AAW journal in August. Keith steam bent his, but of course I had to segment mine. Happy Christmas, Don!"

Tom Mills turned this ornament after the demonstration at the November club meeting. The hollowed globe is sycamore and the finial is walnut.

This was given to his across-the-street neighbor.

Tom Mills made a number of these birdhouse ornaments from sycamore and walnut. They were given to fellow musicians in a group he leads.

Best Wishes for 2024
